Australia's leading cancer experts will convene in Adelaide next week for the Clinical Oncology Society of Australia's (COSA) Annual Scientific Meeting.

Delegates to the meeting include clinicians and researchers, medical and radiation oncologists, cancer surgeons, nurses, pharmacists and allied health workers.

The 40th conference, Cancer Care Coming of Age will highlight geriatric oncology, with a disease theme on gastro-intestinal cancers, which are often neglected at major meetings.

Top Australian and international speakers will present the latest research and developments in cancer control to more than 800 delegates.

When: Tuesday, Nov 12 to Thursday, Nov 14
